Had Herreshoff not taken 9 for the home hole he would have spread-eagled his field. His second shot found one of the deep pits, and two strokes were wasted in getting clear. Then, to cap the climax, he required no fewer than four puts on the massive green. A feature of his round was a 2 at the 160-yard Eder hole, par for which is a. The carry is over a road and an arm of Bull's Head Bay. The runner-up to Hilton in the national championship last year drove the green and ran down a 10-foot put.

His card was as follows:
